

Invitation Microgeneration Conference & Awards

Date: Thursday 11th February 2010
Venue: Royal York Hotel, York

A New Dawn for Microgeneration in Yorkshire and Humber.

April 2010 will be a new dawn for Microgeneration with the introduction of the Clean Energy Cashback scheme. This will reward householders, businesses, communities and public bodies with a special tariff for electricity generated from renewable sources.

The Yorkshire and Humber Microgeneration Partnership will be holding its conference on the 11th February at the Royal York Hotel in York. The focus this year will look at how prepared is our region to take advantage of the Clean Energy Cashback opportunity and reap the rewards of increased investment, new income streams, new jobs and skills, cleaner energy and lower carbon emissions?

The Conference, organised by the Yorkshire and Humber Microgeneration Partnership and supported by the Energy Saving Trust will be addressing this question, seeking the views from all those involved in this fast growing industry and also hearing first hand experiences of those customers who are already pioneers of Microgeneration technologies in the region.

The Conference is a must for commercial enterprises, local authorities, government bodies, charitable organisations, and anyone with an interest in carbon reduction and climate control.

Our first confirmed keynote speaker is the Rt Hon Rosie Winterton MP, Minister for Yorkshire and the Humber.

The programme for the day includes;

- Customers experiences of getting microgeneration, sometimes against the odds

- Addressing the capital costs of installations
- Up close with the technology, see the kit and talk to the experts
- Seminar programme on microgeneration in the community/ action by Councils/action by Housing Associations and Finance for microgeneration

Delegates to the conference also have the opportunity to attend the 2010 Microgeneration Awards Dinner, hosted by BBC weatherman, Paul Hudson.
